ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic data record contains data of an invoice, the record including a plurality of data fields, comprising a data field for characterization of the state of the processing of the invoice. According to one embodiment, a method is provided for processing the electronic data record by means of one or more processes running in a computer system, the method comprising calling a dialogue for entering a state by a user.